

Strategy Overview

Free cash flow has long been emphasized by investors as a key predictor of a company's strength. Companies that pay cash dividends, one indication of strong free cash flow, have historically outperformed the broader market. Focusing strictly on dividend payments, however, misses two key indicators of strong free cash flow: net share repurchases and net debt paydown. The manager believes that a focus on all three factors - dividend payments, net share repurchases and net debt paydown, a trio collectively known as shareholder yield - produces a portfolio of companies that offer strong free cash flow characteristics.

Fund Description

The Cambria Foreign Shareholder Yield ETF seeks investment results that closely correspond to the price and yield performance, before fees and expenses, of the Cambria Foreign Shareholder Yield Index. The Index consists of stocks with high cash distribution characteristics. The initial screening universe for this Index includes stocks in foreign developed countries with market capitalizations over $200 million. The Index is comprised of the 100 companies with the best combined rank of dividend payments and net stock buybacks, which are the key components of shareholder yield. The Index also screens for value and quality factors, and for companies that demonstrate low financial leverage.

There is no guarantee that the Fund will achieve its investment goal. Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. High yielding stocks are often speculative, high risk investments. The underlying holdings of the fund may be leveraged, which will expose the holdings to higher volatility and may accelerate the impact of any losses. These companies can be paying out more than they can support and may reduce their dividends or stop paying dividends at any time, which could have a material adverse effect on the stock price of these companies and the Fund's performance. International investing may involve risk of capital loss from unfavorable fluctuations in currency values, from differences in generally accepted accounting principles, or from economic or political instability in other nations.

There is no guarantee dividends will be paid. Diversification may not protect against market loss.
