

Strategy Overview

The Cambria Tail Risk ETF (BATS: TAIL) utilizes a quantitative approach to actively manage a portfolio of put options purchased on the U.S. stock market. TAIL's strategy is inherently defensive. Research performed by Cambria suggests that, historically, a portfolio of puts purchased on the broad market can help to protect and diversify a traditional long-only portfolio from market downturns.

Fund Description

The Cambria Tail Risk ETF seeks to mitigate significant downside market risk. The Fund intends to invest in a portfolio of "out of the money" put options purchased on the U.S. stock market. TAIL strategy offers the potential advantage of buying more puts when volatility is low and fewer puts when volatility is high. While a portion of the fund's assets will be invested in the basket of long put option premiums, the majority of fund assets will be invested in intermediate term US Treasuries. As the fund is designed to be a hedge against market declines and rising volatility, Cambria expects the fund to produce negative returns in most years with rising markets or declining volatility.

Out of the money (OTM) describes a call option whose strike price is higher than that of the underlying investment, or a put option whose price is lower than that of the underlying security. An OTM option has no intrinsic value.

An option premium is the dollar price per share that an option holder pays the option writer for the option privileges.

ETFs are subject to commission costs each time a "buy" or "sell" is executed. Depending on the amount of trading activity, the low costs of ETFs may be outweighed by commissions and related trading costs.

Shares are bought and sold at market price (closing price) not net asset value (NAV) are not individually redeemed from the Fund. Market price returns are based on the midpoint of the bid/ask spread at 4:00 pm Eastern Time (when NAV is normally determined), and do not represent the return you would receive if you traded at other times. Buying and selling shares will result in brokerage commissions. Brokerage commissions will reduce returns.

Diversification may not protect against market loss.

There is no guarantee that the Fund will achieve its investment goal. Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal.

The Fund is actively managed.

Derivatives are financial instruments that derive their performance from an underlying reference asset, such as an index. Derivatives, such as put options, can be volatile, and a small investment in a derivative can have a large impact on the performance of the Fund as derivatives can result in losses in excess of the amount invested. Options used by the Fund to offset its exposure to tail risk or reduce volatility may not perform as intended. There can be no assurance that the Fund's put option strategy will be effective. The put option strategy may not fully protect the Fund against declines in the value of its portfolio securities.
