

Strategy Overview

Cambria Tax Aware ETF (TAX) seeks long-term capital appreciation. The Cambria Tax Aware ETF utilizes a proprietary quantitative methodology to select US companies with strong value metrics that have low to no dividend yield in an attempt to optimize the Fund's after-tax returns and reduce investors' tax liability associated with dividend distributions.

Fund Description

Utilizing a proprietary quantitative model, TAX selects US value stocks that are attractive from a multi-factor value composite perspective based on traditional value metrics. TAX emphasizes stocks with lower dividend distributions, as those distributions generally taxed as ordinary income. TAX invests in a portfolio of 50-500 stocks on an equal-weighted basis. Stocks that do not generate high dividend yields have the potential to offer higher after-tax returns than high dividend yielding stocks with similar total returns. While some investors may prefer stocks with high dividend yields, those stocks can be inefficient from a tax perspective, particularly for those investors in the higher tax brackets. Accordingly, TAX screens out high dividend yielding stocks and selects companies with strong value metrics to optimize the Fund's after-tax returns and reduce investors' tax liability associated with dividend distributions.

Investing involves risk, including potential loss of capital.

There is no guarantee that a Fund will achieve its investment goal. Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. The Fund will invest in stocks that have lower dividend distributions, which are generally taxed as ordinary income. The Fund's tax aware strategy may reduce an investor's taxable income from the Fund but will not eliminate it. Even though a tax aware strategy is being used, it may not reduce the amount of taxable income and capital gains distributed by the Fund to shareholders, or the amount of Fund distributions that are taxable at ordinary income rates. Narrowly focused funds typically exhibit higher volatility. Diversification may not protect against market losses.

TAX is actively managed.

TAX is new and has limited operating history.
